Traffic Stopper

Newest member of the Safety Patrol staff for appomattox public schools is Mrs. Betty Franklin. Each morning and evening of every school day, the seat belt she wears helps pupils to cross West Confederate Blvd. (Rt. 460) at the intermediate School. The Lynchburg Police Dept. gave her the badge, and although she has never done this work similar to this before, Mrs. Franklin says she enjoys the new job very much. Traffic is extremely heavy at the intersection of Moses St. and Confederate Blvd. with most of the county's school buses traveling this route to the Price Mary School, Appomattox County High School and the Intermediate School.

HD Clubs Plan Meet April

The Virginia State Fair Coordination has a Grievance Committee to act in unofficial area of our state. A customer has the privilege of appearing in complaint with the Grievance Committee whether or not the extermination company against whom the complaint is filed is a member of the Virginia State Fair Council Association.

The Grievance Committee will investigate all complaints, thoroughly inspect premises in question and will report to the president of the Association. He will then call a meeting of the Committee to the home owner. Should the home owner refuse to take action, the committee will appear in court to testify if such testimony is desired by the owner in order to secure termination.

The report of the Grievance Committee has often resulted in satisfactory settlement between customer and pest control operator without need to appear in court.

The service, without charge, is an effort on the part of the Virginia State Fair Council Association to develop confidence and better relationship between pest control operators and the industry. In the past our grievance committee service has been responsible for eliminating unjustified practices by certain operators whose lack of honesty and dependability in work done caused excessive expense or property damage to the customer.

To file a complaint, a customer should contact the president of the Association. He will then assign the complaint to the committee in that particular area of the state. The name of the president may be obtained by contacting any member of the Virginia State Pest Control Association. 3-26-1t
